

David Cotterrell: Culture and Consequence

Event Name: LCACE Arts and Ethics Conference

Venue/Location: Kings' College London

Date: 12th June 2008

Supporting Organisation(s):

LCACE (London Centre for Arts and Cultural Exchange)

Chair/Other Speakers:

Sophie Hope (Space Media Arts); Gini Simpson and Nigel Osborne

At the heart of the event was a desire to examine the sometimes uncomfortable relationships between arts and ethics with a view to exploring how, if or indeed should the arts be expected to be ethical.

The poster features the LCACE logo at the top left, a colorful starburst. The main title is 'CULTURE AND CONSEQUENCE: THE ROLE OF ETHICS IN THE ARTS TODAY'. Below the title, it states 'Edmund J Sells Lecture Theatre, Kings College London 12 June 2008' and 'Tickets: £75 or £25 (artists, small arts organisations and LCACE partners)'. A list of confirmed speakers is provided, including Baroness Susan Greenfield, Julie Kelly, Adam Andersson, Jo Widdig, Matty Pearson, Jonathan Holmes, Dan Gifford, Gay McKee, Professor Ben Quash, Professor Chiara Steinhilber, Rhonda Wilson, June D., Nigel Osborne, Gini Simpson, Michael Symmons Roberts, David Cotterrell, and Sophie Hope. The poster also includes a list of themes: Profit and Value, Public Space, Human Rights and Human Goods, and Faith and Conflict. A small purple logo for 'the arts council' is at the bottom left.

Culture and Consequence is a one-day conference produced by LCACE in partnership with the Cultural Leadership Programme.

The aim of the day is to provide a platform to open up for wider discussion some of the key ethical issues emerging for the arts and cultural sectors now.

At the heart of the event there is a desire to examine the sometimes uncomfortable relationships between arts and ethics with a view to exploring how, if or indeed should the arts be expected to be ethical.

The day will provide timely and provocative presentations as well as a range of panel discussions that will attempt to unpick the following themes and their relationship with the arts:

- Profit and Value
- Public Space
- Human Rights and Human Goods
- Faith and Conflict

The event will be of interest to artists, academics, arts organizations, cultural practitioners and policy-making bodies.

Confirmed speakers include Baroness Susan Greenfield • Julie Kelly (Artistic Director Southbank Centre) • Dr Roland Dalton • Professor Adam Andersson (University of Copenhagen) • Hasan Bakht (NESTA) • Jo Widdig • Matty Pearson (Creative Commons) • Jonathan Holmes • Dan Gifford (Platform London) • Gay McKee • Professor Ben Quash (King's College London) • Professor Chiara Steinhilber (King's College London) • Rhonda Wilson (Richard's Square) • June D. • Nigel Osborne • Gini Simpson (Space Media Arts) • Michael Symmons Roberts • David Cotterrell • Sophie Hope
